

All Graduates

Burmese and Chin

We provide over 100 languages & dialects including

Albanian	Kirundi
Amharic	Kiswahili/Swahili
Arabic	Korean
Arabic (Egypt)	Kurdish
Arabic (Iraqi)	Lao
Arabic (Lebanese)	Latvian
Armenian	Lithuanian
Assyrian	Macedonian
Auslan	Malay
Bengali/Bangla	Malayalam
Bosnian	Maltese
Bulgarian	Mandarin
Burmese	Nepalese
Cantonese	Nuer
Chaldean	Oromo
Chin	Pashtu/Pushto
Chin Haka	Polish
Chin Mindat	Portuguese
Chin Tedim	Punjabi
Croatian	Romanian
Czech	Russian
Dari	Samoan
Dinka	Serbian
Dutch	Sinhalese
Farsi	Slovenian
Fiji Hindi	Somali
Filipino	Spanish
Finnish	Sudanese Arabic
French	Tamil
Fuqing	Telegu
Fuzhou	Teo Chew
German	Tetum
Greek	Thai
Gujurati	Tigrinya
Hakka	Timorese Hakka
Harari	Toishan
Hazaragi	Tongan
Hebrew	Turkish
Hindi	Ukrainian
Hokkien	Urdu
Hmong	Uyghur
Hungarian	Uzbek
Indonesian	Vietnamese
Italian
Japanese
Kannada
Karen
Khmer

The Chin peoples, from Burma's (Myanmar's) difficult to access western mountain regions, are a very recently arrived group in Australia.

The Chin language has many varieties, not all mutually intelligible, and the linguistic differences are compounded by highly varied levels of education and contact with the western world.

The Ethnologue reference guide lists 31 different varieties of the Chin language, which are also spoken in Indi and Bangladesh. The largest are:

- Chin Tedim estimated 189,000 speakers
- Chin Falam estimated 100,000 speakers
- Chin Haka (Hakha) estimated 100,000 speakers (not to be confused with the Chinese Hakka variety).

Smaller varieties include Chin Khumi, Chin Zotung and Chin Müün.

Some Chin speak standard Burmese, but this will vary greatly by age, work experience and education level.

Qualified telephone interpreters
24 hours a day, 7 days a week

Call InterpreterLine

1300 739 731

Local call cost, Australia-wide

All Graduates
INTERPRETING & TRANSLATING

admin@allgraduates.com.au
www.allgraduates.com.au

INTERPRETERLINE™
always there.

InterpreterLine is the telephone and video interpreting specialist division of All Graduates